FRANKFORT, January 12.

IT may be useful to apprise the public, that an act was passed at the late session of the Legislature of this state, remitting the forfeiture of Lands not entered for taxation prior to the first of October last; and providing that all such Lands may be entered in two years from the passage of the act, upon paying up all arrearages of tax. The act was approved on the 13th of December last.

The following resolution also passed the Legislature:

IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

Dec 18, 1804.

The general assembly being impressed with the necessity of a well regulated federal judiciary, if it retains its present jurisdiction; conceiving that, as it respects this state, it is defectively organized, although they have the highest confidence in the present judge of the federal court; being fully persuaded that it is a fundamental principle of the union of the states that each member has equal rights and should enjoy equal political advantages with the others; without regard to local situation; more especially as that does not produce an exemption from general burthens, and consequently ought not to prevent a participation of general benefits; seeing that the federal court is, and will probably continue to be crouched with business, owing to the unfortunate disputes existing in the titles to lands, much of which is claimed by the citizens of other states, who in general prefer this tribunal; and the magnitude of the sum litigated requisite for appeals, and the difficulties attending their prosecution, being such as almost to preclude a revision in the supreme court of the decisions of the court of this district; and moreover conceiving the responsibility and powers of the judge of this district, too great for any one man, however virtuous and enlightened:

Resolved therefore, That it be an instruction to the senators, and a request to the representatives from this state in congress, to use their best exertions to effect an extension of the circuit courts of the United States to this state, or the establishment of a similar system adapted to our peculiar situation.

The above resolution was unanimously concurred in by the house of representatives.

Attest, T. TODD, C. H. R.

The fur trade of the British Canadian provinces, is becoming every day more and more important, nor can we help regretting that so valuable a business, should be so little attended to by our citizens—the rapid settlement of the state of Ohio, particularly in the neighborhood of Lake Erie, will be the means of the United States partaking more fully of the benefits of the fur trade than at present. In the year 1803 there were exported from Canada, to England 106,000 beaver skins, 2100 bear skins, 1500 fox skins, 4000 kit skins, 4600 otters skins, 17000 muskrat skins, 600 wolverine skins, 11600 fisher skins, 2800 wolf skins, 700 elk skins, 7500 deer skins, and 1200 dressed deer skins. It may well be questioned whether settlements at Cleveland Mentor, Painesville or Randolphville, in Summit county Ohio, would not be a means of securing a considerable portion of this valuable trade to the citizens of our country. This is more particularly worthy of attention as that of the British government has been some time employed in deriving the means of giving their fur trade a superiority over ours, more especially in the China market.

Nothing can more fully ascertain the nature of the connection between G. Britain and the United States, or more fully satisfy any patriotic American, that when we only demand what is just, we are sure of the acquiescence of that power, than the following facts mentioned in one of their publications of the most deserved estimation—viz. that in 1802, 30,000 tons of shipping and 2,000 seamen were constantly employed in importing cotton and exporting the articles into which it was manufactured. That 25,000 persons were constantly employed in G. Britain, in the manufactures, whose wages amount to 13,000,000 sterling a year. When to these considerations are added the immense sums raised by Britain on the importation of cotton we may conclude that if her machinery and industry enable her manufactures to undersell those of other nations, yet the produce of the United States is necessary to fill her treasury.

Register.

The Town of DAYTON, in the State of Ohio.

THE town of Dayton, is situated on the East bank of the great Miami River, at its confluence with Mad River, and a little below the mouth of the South-West branch of great

Miami, and will of course be the best shipping place on the river.—The country around Dayton, for thirty or forty miles in any direction, is generally speaking, both fertile, and finely situated.—Emigrants are daily crowding to fill it. The site of Dayton is reckoned by all who have seen it, to be very fine.—The ground is dry and hard, with a gentle ascent from the river, to a sufficient distance back, for a large town and out lots. The town is laid out regularly, at right angles.—The lots are six poles in front, and twelve poles back. The two main streets which intersect each other at right angles, are each eight poles wide; the others are six.—Through each block of lots runs an alley, one pole wide, which is undoubtedly a great very convenience. It is a seat of justice, and a Post town, through which the United States' road from the Eastward to Louisiana will run, as also the State road from the Southward to Detroit. From the waters of Mad-River, water-works of any kind and extent may be erected. At present the town enjoys the benefit of a Grist and Saw-mill.—Upon the whole its improvement is very considerable for its age, but would no doubt be rapid, were there Mechanics sufficient in the place—several kinds are much wanted at present, particularly good House Carpenters, Brick-makers, & Layers, Blacksmiths, Nailors, &c. In a word, labourers of every description. At a late town meeting of the inhabitants, a committee from that meeting have been authorized, to contract for between three and four hundred thousand bricks, for the next season.—The committee will receive proposals for making said brick, until the fifteenth day of February next, at which time a contract will be entered into and closed by said committee, for one half cash, and the balance country produce, with the lowest bidder, upon his giving bond, with approved security for performance and delivery of at least one half that quantity by the first day of July next.

Dayton, December 28th, 1804.

PHILADELPHIA, December 21.

The ship Alonzo, Capt. Gibbs, arrived on Tuesday night last at New York from London. By this vessel London advices have been received to the 23d October, four days later than those received at Norfolk: we do not find, however, that any information of moment had been communicated in the interim. No declaration of war had been made by England against Spain, but the captures of Spanish vessels continued to be made. As we had expected, the influence of Prussia had been directed to prevent the extension of the war to the continent; there appears little probability of the so much talked of coalition in the north against France: in such an event France would receive the aid of Prussia and Austria. Bonaparte's policy, of excluding English manufactured goods from the countries under his controul, continued to be actively pursued. Mention is made of a contemplated change in the government of Holland, it is evident, however, that Bonaparte, might as well incorporate that country at once with France, as he at present exercises all the powers of its government. The London prints inform what were the demands made by Russia, in the late discussion with France; the information is probably correct, as they are demands of that nature which despots always make, when desirous of war, or of committing like outrages upon the rights of nations.

December 22.

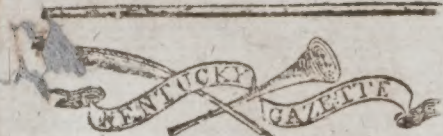

Advices have been received at Boston from Russia, to the 26th September, stating the probability of a war between that country and France—that the utmost activity prevailed in the Russian ports in fitting out ships of war, 70 ships of the line could be sent to sea—that an army of 150,000 men had been assembled on the western frontiers of Russia, to be commanded by the brother of the emperor—that hostilities would probably commence in the spring—that Sweden was in league with Russia, and Denmark supposed to be favorable with France.

LONDON, October 22.

The king of Prussia has repeated his determination to remain neutral—and upon the subject of the war-like preparations of Sweden, in Pomerania, his Prussian majesty is said to have declared, that should these preparations be found to be directed against the electorate of Hanover he would not suffer the Swedish troops to pass through his territory to invade that country, and should use his utmost exertions to preserve that system of neutrality which he had so solemnly pledged himself to maintain. This declaration is different from that which has lately been attributed to his majesty; and, indeed during the continuance of his present connection with France, a strict observance of the line of neutrality, to which he appears to have pledged himself, is all that can reasonably be looked for or expected from him. Swedish Pomerania will, in that case, be secure from any attack that may be meditated against it by France.

LEXINGTON, JANUARY 22.

The Mail due yesterday had not arrived when this paper was put to press.

DIED, last night, Mr. Peter Janu-ry sen. an aged and respectable citizen of this town.

One day last week a man was found frozen to death, near Shepherdsville—His horse was found also frozen in Salt river. It is supposed he attempted to cross the river on the ice, which broke under him. Being unable to extricate his horse, he proceeded on foot about a mile where he was next morning found dead.

By the following notice it will be seen what steps have been taken by the Insurance Company, to save the lands of such citizens as had not received timely notice of the expiration of the time for redeeming them. It remains now with the owners of Lands to secure themselves, by coming forward immediately, and not deferring it until a late day of the two months given in the notice, as a crowd of applicants at that time, may put it out of the power of the Supervisor to give the necessary receipts.

DIRECT TAX

THE time expiring this day, for the redemption of lands, houses and lots, which have been sold for the payment of the Direct Tax, in the following districts, viz. Logan, Green and Bourbon, composed of the counties of Bourbon, part of Nicholas, Green, Warren, Wayne, Cumberland, Adair, Pulaski and Logan, and all the counties south of Big Barren and Green rivers, &c.

The President and Directors of the Kentucky Insurance Company, being sensible of the great injury to which their fellow citizens would be exposed, whose property has been sold without their knowledge, made a tender of a sufficient sum to redeem the whole of the lands not yet redeemed.

As soon as possible, a list of the lands with the proprietors' names will be made out and advertised, to enable the delinquents to come forward and redeem their property within two months from this date, (January 16).

It is hoped no person by further delay will risk the loss of his property, as two months is the utmost extent to which delay can be permitted.

It is with regret, which we know not how to express, that we inform our readers that the Senate of South Carolina have rejected by a single vote, the bill to prohibit the importation of slaves. Two members of the Senate being absent when this decision was made, hopes are entertained of the eventual passage of a similar bill now before the House of Representatives.

Mr. Leib moved that a committee be appointed to enquire into the expediency of making provision by law to authorize the collectors of the several ports of the United States, to deposit for collection the bonds received by them for the payment of duties, in the bank of the United States, or any of its branches, or in any of the chartered banks of the several States. In support of the reference he remarked that the resolution contemplated an enquiry, and an important one. The bank of the United States and its branches had usually a deposit of the monies of the government to the amount of between four and five millions of dollars, that by means of this deposit that bank was enabled not only to hold the mercantile interest tributary to the institution, but all the banks of the States. His object was to equalize the benefits and not to permit that institution to monopolize an enormous profit from the treasure of the nation. He wished to utter the bank institutions generally, and he hoped the enquiry would obtain, and he believed the bonds due to the United States would be carefully collected in the chartered Banks, which are at the same time equally secure, as that of the United States or any of its branches.

Mr. R. Griswold recollected this subject was suggested at a former session, and as it had a relation to the management of our finances he thought it would be more proper to refer it to the committee of Ways and Means—he made that motion accordingly.

Mr. Leib did not see that the subject necessarily appertained to the committee of Ways and Means. It had no relation to the increase or decrease of the duties on imports, but merely to the deposit of the bonds given by the merchants to the collectors. His true object was to prevent a monopoly, and he trusted gentlemen would not be enabled to defeat it by this mode of reference.

Mr. R. Griswold, understood the motion to relate to the deposit of the bonds, but it would be proper to enquire into the safety of such deposit before it was authorized by law; and in his opinion the committee of Ways and Means from the habits of their business was as competent to make the enquiry as any select committee.

On the question it was referred to the committee of Ways and Means, 51 being in favor of such reference, and 41 against it.

Extract of a letter from a mercantile house in Madeira to its correspondent in this place, dated October 29th, received by the ship Medway, captain Potts.

"By a vessel arrived here two days ago from London, we have received the official intelligence of a declaration of war between England and Spain. This you may rely on."

In addition to the above extract, capt. Potts says, that hostilities having commenced between England and Spain was known at Madeira—reports were current that the French had taken possession of the Spanish ships of war at Ferrol, Coruna, &c. and that they are in daily apprehension of the French taking Madeira.

A letter from St. Thomas, received at Philadelphia, states, that on the preceding day a dreadful conflagration had destroyed the whole of the town, with the exception of five houses.

Accounts received from Malaga by the way of Charleston state that the pestilence had nearly ceased.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.

FROM THE NORTH OF EUROPE.

By a gentleman of information just arrived from St. Petersburg, which he left the 26th of September, we are informed a war with France was considered inevitable: that the Charge des Affaires which had been left by the French Minister, was ordered to leave Russia, on the 24th of September; but that in consequence of the receipt of the Russian Charge-des-Affaires has been detained at Strasburg, a courier had been dispatched to Revel, to detain the Frenchman:—That the greatest activity prevailed in the Russian navy yards, and the several ships of the line had been ordered out of dock, which circumstance at that season of the year, evinced urgency: That an army of 150,000 men was assembled on the western frontier of Russia, to command which the Grand Duke Constantine (brother to the Emperor, and an uncle of Suwarrow) left Petersburg, some days before our informant failed:—That the general information was, that hostilities against France would commence in the spring, unless conciliatory propositions were received from Bonaparte during the winter. Russia can fit out a navy of 70 sail of the line.

SWEDEN, it was agreed on all hands, would follow the fortunes of Russia; without whose assistance she was in no situation to engage in a war.

DENMARK, it was said would preserve her neutrality as long as she could; and seemed rather inclined to France than Russia.—She cannot long remain in peace, if the expected war break out.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 15.

S. AVERY!

A case in this State of unparalleled cruelty came before the court of general sessions, held in this city last week. One CARL A. HOFFMAN was convicted by verdict of an assault committed on James Wright, a slave, a boy about 12 years old. Wright had been guilty of a lachry fault, on which Hoffman, perhaps consulting the natural bent of his mind, determined to take vengeance in a summary way—and his mode of torture seems to have been of an ingenious kind, and as cruel as it was ingenious.—Having tied his hands together, and then his legs, HOFFMAN cramed down the throat of the wretched boy two table spoon's full of salt. Thus tied and crammed with salt, he was hoisted by a rope towards the ceiling of a close room, whence he was suspended for two days, without either meat or drink. In the mode of suspension, diabolical ingenuity seems to have exhausted its resources. The lad's body was half bent inwards and his tied arms stretched out. In this attitude, and at the end of 2 days, HOFFMAN gave him, with his horse-whip, a hundred and thirty nine lashes on his naked back, the first of which drew blood! Still his thirst for cruelty was not quenched. Trying, with calm indifference, what nature could bear, he applied to the boy's wounds a mixture of salt and brandy! He was sentenced to pay a fine of 250 dollars, and give security for his good behavior for five years.

DR. WATERHOUSE'S LECTURE, ON THE PERNICIOUS EFFECTS OF SMOKING SEGARS.

THE Professor of the theory and practice of Physic finished his course last week by a public lecture in the Chapel at Cambridge, which has justly excited no small attention without, as well as within the walls of the College.—We shall not attempt an analysis of it, but simply mention some of its most striking features. The subject is indeed interesting to the community, being a view of the health of the Scholars at present, and in years past. It was clearly proved that instances of depraved health had increased, and were increasing; and that there were more hectic and consumptive complaints within three or four years past, than for upwards of twenty years previous, during which the Professor made his observations. He adduced the striking fact, that the table set for the freshmen in the hall, was generally cleared of its contents; while those Students 3 or 4 years in advance, left nearly half that was set before them. If a keen appetite be a criterion of health, there was something of late years in a College life, which depraves the appetite; inasmuch as those who come in ruddy, hale and hungry, go out pale, languid, some dried and dyspeptic. The cause of this declining health was sought for, when it was found to originate principally from an indolent or sedentary habit of life, brought on, and continued by the very prevalent and nearly universal custom of smoking Segars. It was rendered evident that these two causes co-operated and aggravated each other; that the relaxing habit of smoking disinclined them from exercising in the open air, as was the custom before the filthy fashion of smoking became so inordinate and so general.

The Professor then disclaimed on the narcotic effects of Tobacco, which he said, like rum or brandy, first stimulated and then stupified; that when chewed, it was a consolidating dry dram. He then explained the importance of saliva to digestion, and shewed how the function was injured; especially in young persons, who had not attained their full growth, by ejecting it. It was said, that inordinate smokers were in danger of becoming tiplers, from the unnatural thirst, created by the process of hot fumigation; and that to remove the faintness of the stomach, incident to young smokers, too many had recourse to stimulating drinks. The Professor held up to view the picture of intemperance, and contrasted it with juvenile health and vigor; he intreated the young gentlemen in an affectionate manner, to guard against and resist the first inroads upon their youthful constitutions: and pointed out in a forcible but delicate manner, the effect of that folly, "which most easily begets them."—The Dr. allowed that smoking was cordial and comfortable to elderly people, in certain situations, and under certain circumstances. He said, he should be unwilling to deprive the laboring man of the soporiferous regale after a hard day's work; or the grief-worn weary negro, after he has finished his hard task on the plantation and whose wretched condition excites a wish "to sleep his senses in forgetfulness." Nay said he, I would light the pipe myself for this dark son of affliction, if its fumes would induce him for a moment to forget his wretchedness. But for a young person, a young gentleman, not yet arrived to the perfection of his growth and faculties, and who is, ought to be all life, activity, alertness and neatness: for him to wish "to sleep his senses in forgetfulness," is if not a vice, a shameful depravity: absolutely unworthy the blooming energies of youth.

The Professor likewise remarked, that it was allowed by all that since the foundations of the Colleges, the custom of smoking was never so general as of late years; and that it was conceded by all, that individuals never carried the practice to such excess before; and that it was confessed by all that the sons of Harvard never appeared so languid and unhealthy; and that he could say as a Physician, that during the three and twenty years he had been a Professor in the College, he had never seen so many marks of declining health, nor never knew so many hectic habits, and consumptive affections as of late years; and that he could trace this alarming inroad on their tender constitutions to the pernicious custom of smoking Segars, and its equally pernicious concomitants. Although the lecture was replete with solemn advice, and was in some passages a strong invective against a darling fashion: yet the Students immediately requested a copy for the press, which we hope will be the means of checking a very serious evil.

"To fear sloth on Fancy's wing."
From the Charleston Times.

CANST thou, my—still be thus unkind, Canst thou torment a heart that's on those doating? [mind]
And from the storm not have my peace of
On forrow's sea, that now, alas! is floating?

No star to guide, no pilot to advise,
My tortured soul against the rock is driving;
In vain to heav'n I raise my suppliant eyes,
Hope flees—my wretched fate despair's countriving.

In this dread scene, my thoughts on thee still rove,
Present the happy hours when with thee ranging:
When my dear—hail'd my humble love,
And thine her heart could never taste of changing.

Canst thou forget the steps by which my flame,
Up admiration's steep were led to loving?
And canst thou think upon Amyntor's name,
Nor in thy heart one pitying sigh be moving?

Near pale disease I've seen thee take thy stand,
And while with sympathy thy heart was beating—
Hope was rekindled by thy aiding hand,
And at thy voice despair was seen retreating.

O'er the sad child of forrow falls thy tear,
And friendship's warmth within thy breast is glowing;
In thee, the poor still find that succour's near,
And grief's full eye, thy goodness stops from flowing.

O thou thine eye in mercy deign to turn,
And while hope, heav'n, and joys are me forsaking;
O bid, with gratitude, my bosom burn,
Rejoice my peace, and be my heav'n thy making.

DANCING SCHOOL.

Dancing being that which gives graceful motion, all the life, and above all things manliness and a becoming confidence to young men,
I think it cannot be learnt too early.
But you must take care to employ a proper Dancing Master, one who knows and can teach what is graceful and becoming—he who teaches not this, is worse than none at all.

HERETOFORE a principal dancer at the Theatre of Philadelphia, and Charleston, being respectfully recommended to this place from the City of Washington, where he taught last winter, purposes to commence a Dancing
School in Mr. Bradley's Ball Room.

Understanding that it is a general complaint,
that the public are often imposed upon by persons professing themselves to be dancing masters, who are wholly unqualified for this occupation, which they have so vilified as to make it be thought the last refuge of imbecility, Mr.
Nugent thinks proper to lay before the public, the following certificate from the Rev. Doctor Buist of Charleston, sensible that the livelihood of a teacher depends much on the respectability of his character.

"Charleston (S. C.) Oct. 29, 1803

"Mr. H. P. Nugent was an assistant teacher in my academy nearly twelve months, in the year 1801, during which time he behaved with strict propriety and attention. From personal observation and experience, I believe him to be a correct and critical scholar in the English and Latin languages, and I have been informed by competent judges that Mr. Nugent is intimately acquainted with the French language, and is an accomplished teacher of dancing. At Mr. Nugent's desire I have given this certificate, which I consider as a debt
due to merit.

tioned against taking an assignment on a BOND given by me to Francis Holder, for 200, dated the first day of February 1804, and

Travellers' Hall.

HAS lately been induced, from the rapid increase of his custom, to purchase a lot of ground, adjoining that on which he lives, for the purpose of building a dining room and assembly room, each 54 by 92 feet 10 inches, with six additional lodging rooms, and intends to finish them before the ensuing winter; which, together with his Tavern and house, will occupy a front of near one hundred feet in the most agreeable part of the town, and in the centre of business, being on the highest part of the public square. He has considerably increased the furniture, &c. of his house and stables—His domestics and servants are of the most faithful dispositions and properly qualified for the departments to which they are arranged—He has a constant supply of the best stable forage, imported and country provisions, imported liquors, &c. of the best quality, foreign newspapers, &c. &c. and his ice will,
most probably, last through the hot weather.

The distinguished preference which the first characters have already given him in his business, fills him with gratitude. He offers his sincere thanks to all his good friends, and begs leave to assure them, that neither his time nor his purse shall be spared in attempting to render the Travellers' Hall, a house of entertainment, for Genteel Guests only, equal to any in America.

R. BRADLEY.

Vendue Store.

IN order to facilitate the disposal of the Produce, Manufactures, &c. of this country, the subscriber will open a Store in Lexington, for receiving Produce and Merchandise, &c. for sale by Vendue.

The Produce of this country will,
doubtless, at no very distant period, command a price in money. At first some difficulty will arise, but I am fully persuaded that in time, by perseverance
the whole of the produce raised in the vicinity of this town, and on the Kentucky river, may be sold, either for cash
in hand, or for approved endorsed notes.

A small commission will be charged,
and in emergencies, money will be advanced on Goods or Produce.

If the plan meets with encouragement,
there will be at least one sale every week.
He will also buy and sell shares in the Kentucky Insurance Company, and other Securities, on commission.

Insurances will be effected at the Insurance Office, or by Private Underwrit-ters, by

W. MACBEAN.
